What's the Call

Question: Shooter fires second pistol, then has to move right to shotgun, second pistol was on right side, straight hang holster. Shooter begins turning as he is stabbing the gun. He has turned 90 degrees to firing line and misses the stab. Gun is pointed straight down his leg as he takes several steps to the shotgun, where he holsters the pistol. is this a 170 violation?

Answer from Pale Wolf Brunelle ...

The ONLY thing that matters is whether the muzzle of the revolver broke the allowed 180° straight down.

Movement is NOT a factor.

It makes no difference if the holster is on the UPrange or downrange side of the shooter during the reholstering. Actually, this applies to X-draw and "non-straight hang" holsters as well...as long as the MUZZLE of the firearm never points UPRANGE while out of leather (going to or coming from).

There is no "three pokes & yer out" rule.

...as long as the shooter is in the act of holstering the 170° exemption rule applies (to the 180).

4. Major safety infractions will result in the shooter's Disqualification from the Stage or Match. "Major" infractions include: a dropped gun, a discharge that is unsafe or a discharge that impacts less than ten feet from the shooter, violation of the 170° safety rule, "sweeping" any person with the muzzle of a firearm, and similar acts that have high potential for personal injury. Committing two (or more) Stage DQ infractions will result in a Match DQ (even on the same stage). This does NOT apply to a single action that carries multiple penalties (e.g. breaking the 170° with an unloaded firearm & simultaneously sweeping someone). There are circumstances where a single Major Safety violation will result in a Match Disqualification. (See Addendum for listing of penalties.)
